MCSO ADMINISTRATION

Sheriff Carmichael

Sheriff Irwin Carmichael was born in rural Long Creek, a few miles north of Charlotte, North Carolina. He started karate lessons at an early age, and through hard work, practice, and training, earned his first Black Belt at the age of fourteen. Since then, he has achieved a master level, ninth degree Black Belt in Kempo Karate. He has put his knowledge, love, and expertise for karate into a business and oversees several karate schools.

In 1986, Irwin joined the Mecklenburg County Sheriff's Office and elected Sheriff in November of 2014. Through his work, he has had the opportunity to interview hardened criminals and analyze the minds behind crimes. He has gathered information for his crime prevention programs through his profile transports of prisoners such as Henry Louis Wallace, Van Brett Watkins, and Rae Carrouth. He saw a way to merge his skill in the martial arts with his knowledge of crime to develop a personal safety and awareness program, Women's Awareness Response. As a courtesy of the Sheriff's Office, he presents this program to organizations, businesses, and groups throughout the country and state.

In an attempt to further educate the public on crime prevention and self-defense, Sheriff Carmichael has written a book, Women's Awareness Response, and has produced a child safety and abduction video, Kid's Awareness Response. In addition, he uses his martial arts proficiency to teach defensive tactics and ground fighting at the Mecklenburg County Sheriff's Office Training Academy, Charlotte-Mecklenburg Police Academy, and other law enforcement agencies, including the North Carolina Justice Academy and the North Carolina Highway Patrol Training Center. The class that took him the farthest from home was the one he taught the Australian Federal Police.

Sheriff Carmichael's knowledge of karate has made it possible to impact almost every segment of our society as he teaches kid's karate classes, women's self-defense classes and ground fighting seminars.

He is also a retired Engineer/Firefighter for the city of Charlotte. He has fulfilled every little boy's dream of becoming a policeman, fireman, and a karate master. Sheriff Carmichael has a wife, and a son, Rodney, who is already following in his daddy's footsteps.

Chief Deputy McAdoo

Chief Deputy Sheriff, Felicia McAdoo, is a thirty year veteran of the Mecklenburg County Sheriff's Office and is the highest ranking officer.

Chief McAdoo began her career in 1986 starting as a security officer. She served in every rank of supervision until her selection to Chief Deputy in 2008. Previous areas of experience include: Detention and Rehabilitation, Work Release, Arrest Processing, Facility Development, Office of Professional Compliance (Internal Affairs), Field Services and the Courts Division.

Chief McAdoo attended Rutledge College, Gaston College and The Administrative Officer's Management Program at North Carolina State University. She is a member of the American Correctional Association, National Sheriffs' Association, North Carolina Sheriffs' Association, North Carolina Jail Administrators Association, and The National Forum of Black Public Administrators. She also serves as the Chairperson of the Sheriff's Employee of the Month Committee and a Police Activities League board member. Chief McAdoo is a Charlotte native and is married and the mother of a son and two daughters.

AMERICAN CORRECTIONAL ASSOCIATION (ACA)

The Mecklenburg County Sheriff's Office (MCSO) proudly distinguished itself in 2003 as the first nationally accredited local jail system in North Carolina. According to the American Correctional Association (ACA), the national standards serve as benchmarks in the operations of correctional facilities.

These standards are necessary to ensure that facilities are operated safely and professionally.

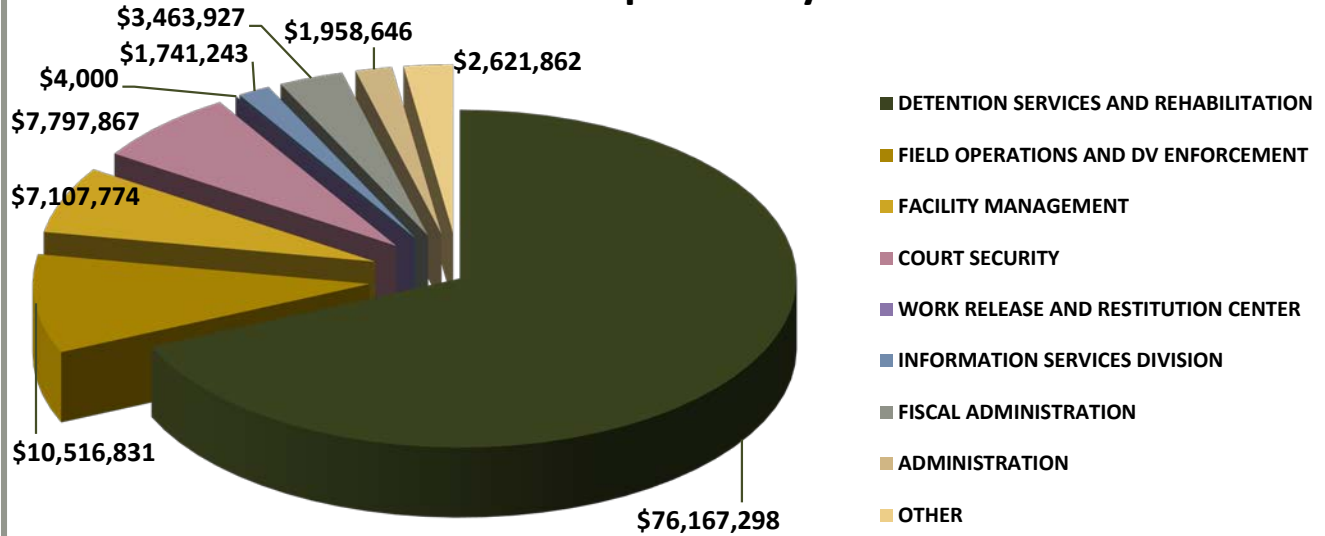

To achieve accreditation, the jails undergo a comprehensive audit of their operations to determine compliance. Accreditation is effective for a three-year period. MCSO conducts annual internal audits of supporting documentation to evaluate operations in order to maintain accreditation.

The accreditation process examines services, programs, and operations essential to superior correctional management. While the primary purpose of accreditation is to protect jail staff and offenders, many additional benefits are also derived. Examples of such benefits include:

- Minimizing the potential for expensive and time consuming litigation from negligence and other liability
- Assessing the strengths and weaknesses of the jail to maximize available resources and implement positive change
- Contributing to public and professional recognition of good performance
- Contributing to improvement of staff moral and inmate behavior

Substance Abuse Recidivism (12 Month)	48%	43%

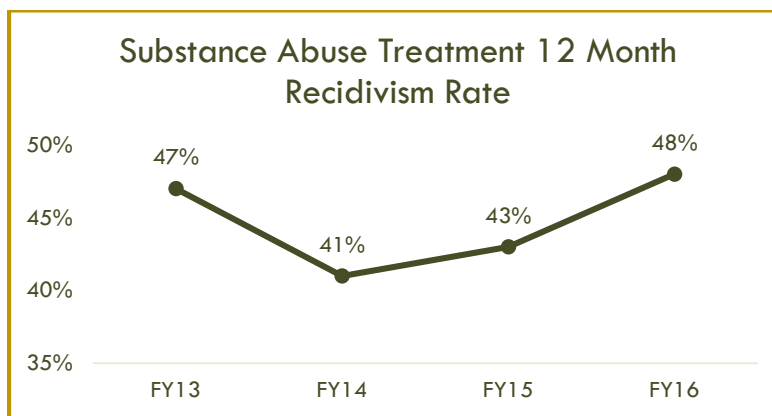

In April of 2016, the MCSO Inmate Programs Division opened a new male program housing unit, for felony and misdemeanor inmates who will be released into the community. Tools such as Level of Service Inventory-Revised (LSI-R) assessment, case management and goal/release planning is provided to each program participant, with the mission of targeting criminogenic risk factors. Further, this evidence based programming offers community linkage to address post release risk factors.

Adult Programs

Adult Programs	FY 16
Number of participations	4,903
Class Completion Rate	76%

Adult GED	FY 16
Number of GED participants	393
Number of GED graduates	12
Average days to graduate	150

Due to the transition from GED to HISET, GED programming was not offered for several months in FY16, resulting in a fewer number of participants, when compared to FY15.

Spanish Programming	FY 16
Number of participations	798
Number of completions in programs	625
